

ABSTRACT

A current loop control circuit for a process variable transmitter coupled to a receiver at a remote location through a two-conductor current loop. The current loop control circuit efficiently utilizes the current in the loop to produce an optimal voltage and current for the operation of the process variable measurement transmitter.

2025-01-10 10:53:42